NOTICE to The Reader:

The "Get to Know me in 5 Minutes" series is meant to bridge the gap between people through the start of open communication, as we can find more solutions in our local and global community through getting to know each other better.

This book is a representation of the author at the time of writing.

We live in a world where we think we need to be perfect to share our creativity, but a painting of a building doesn't need to look as perfect as a photograph in order to be considered a fine work of art.

This "Get to Know me in 5 Minutes" series is envisioned as an art form and an ongoing work in progress, therefore you may find grammar, spelling or formatting mistakes. This is to illustrate the idea that no one is perfect. It's about bringing the humanity back into humanity, so that everyone feels they have the right to come out publicly as human as they are. It's the content that matters.

Corrections may be made in future editions by the author.

This book may be available through printed and e-versions. Although the use of paper is a less than sustainable practice, the purpose of printing is to help further reach to more people in the world who may not have access to electronic readers.

"Get to Know me in 5 Minutes" series is open to every person on this planet to write about themselves.

The reason we use numbers in the title of the books is to actively see the count of the amount of people who decided to write for this book series. The higher that count becomes, the more encouraging it is for others to see they can also take their stand to share who they are with the world.

Let us all get to know each other and together make the world a better place for everyone.
